

Outdoor Learning

Forest School – Stone Age Camp

Tuesday 7th July 2020 13:30 —15:30

Venue: Hollingworth

Lake Visitor Centre

Trainer: NatureEd CIC

Audience: All Staff

The Forest School makes an ideal setting for learning about Stone Age history. Hands-on activities can be used to inspire pupils to learn where people would have lived in the local area and how they survived day to day. The session will include fire lighting, cooking over an open fire, clay and charcoal art.

Curriculum links:

History (late Neolithic hunter-gatherers & early farmers

PSHE (risk taking)

Science (classification & materials)

To find out more details and to book a place go to www.realtrust.org.uk

NatureEd CIC is a Community Interest Company working in an agreement with Rochdale Council and offering a wide range of dynamic environmental education activities from an education base at Hollingworth Lake.

These CPD workshops are a chance to share our knowledge of hands-on eco-activities and our expertise as Level 3 Forest School Practitioners. For more details see: www.NatureEd.co.uk